discover the unknown

Mr. Dehne . . . there's a mouse running loose in this room! Oh Dick, how can you stand to cut up that poor creature. These are very typical sounds in our Science Department. In order to take advanced science as a Senior, you start with chemistry in the Sophomore year. Physics is required in the Junior year. The Senior year is then devoted mostly to student research projects. Most students, however, don't care to take this much science. Chemistry is generally for the Juniors with physics taken in the Senior year. If you don't need credits in these sciences, physical science is available for all college prep. students. The science classes, though hard, are quite interesting. They enable the student to grow mentally into the world of the unknown.

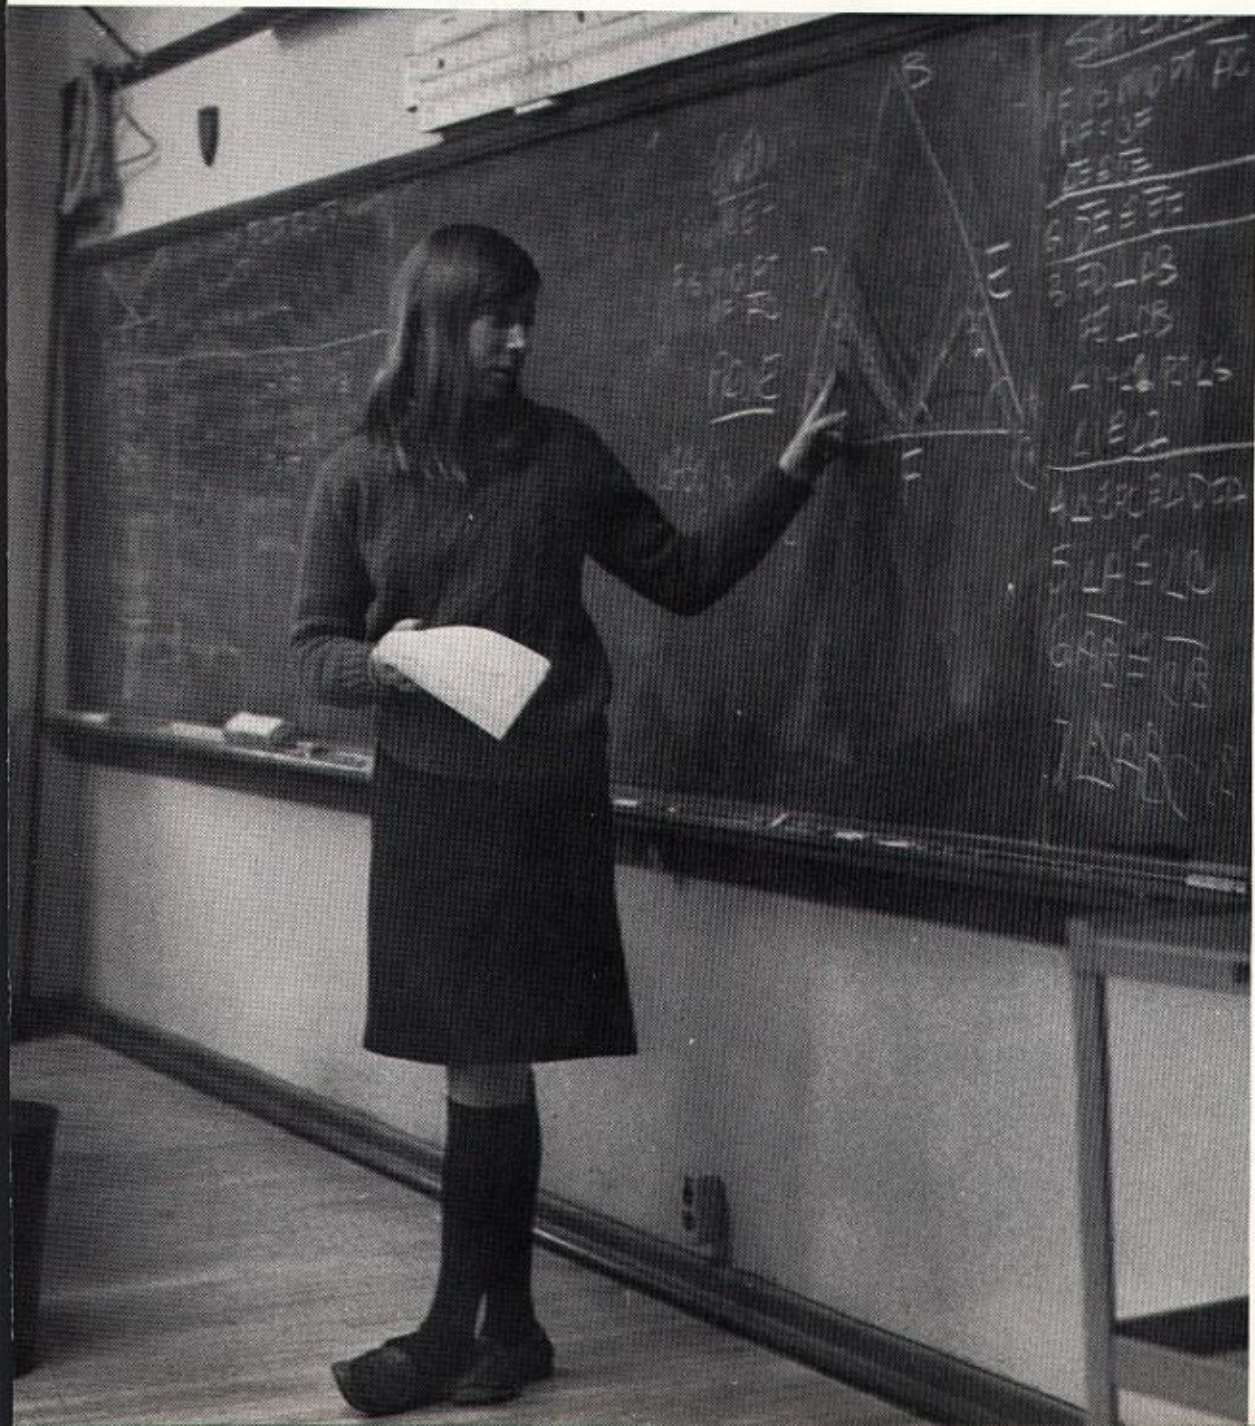

A physics class outside, how strange.

math leads the way to the future

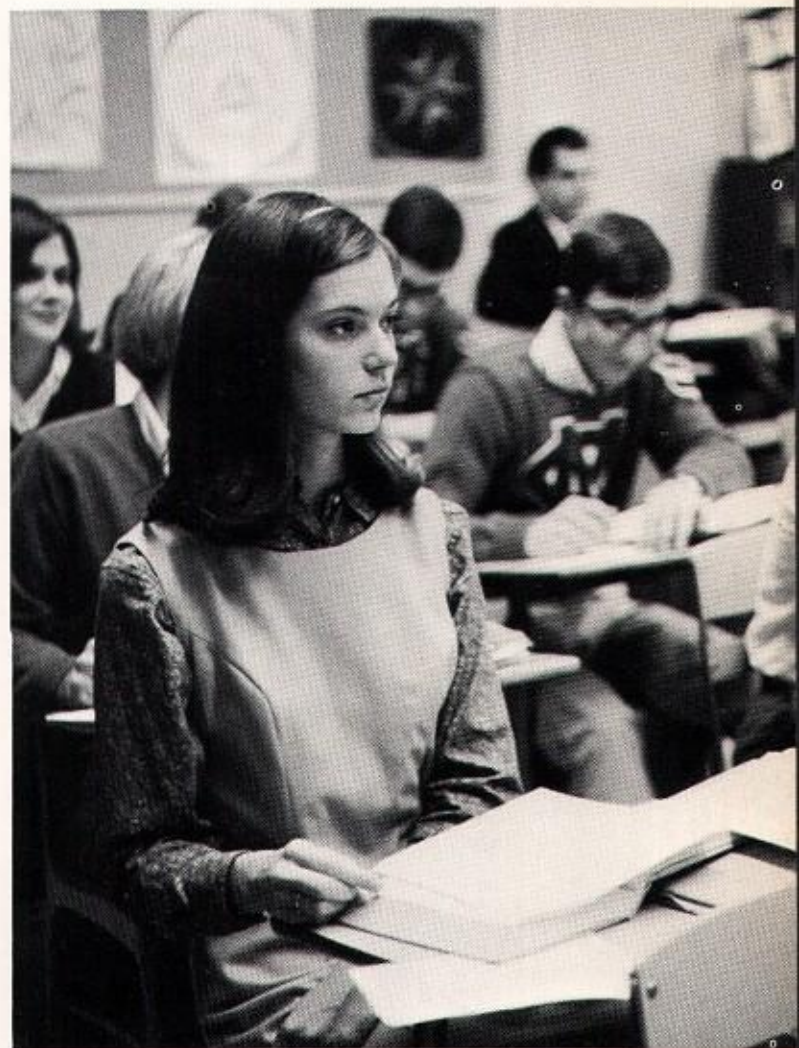

Gee, Mr. Fischer, even you have a hard time explaining your quizzes.

"I thought I understood," says Cynthia Stuermer.

A most inquisitive subject is math. To understand this fascinating phenomena, math's study begins in high school with geometry. This is a math of triangles and their functions. In the student's junior year his math subject is algebra. The student learns, in this class, the functions of Real numbers on the number line. For a conclusion to high school math, the Senior year student receives training in advanced mathematics. This course consists of trigonometry, analytic geometry, and calculus. This is a course which introduces the student to college math. The significance of this course is to help the student receive a foundation for future studies.

Sue Linsemeyer listens attentively as Mr. Sorge explains a trig. problem.

Kathy Pawlicke illustrates the correct procedure for cutting even, exact cookies, as fellow classmates observe.

Cookies just don't raise if the oven isn't turned on, as Janis Bleck finds out.

trial and error aids in learning

Adding salt to the brew certainly enhances the flavor, as these two homemakers are taught.

"Hmm . . . what is that tempting smell? Seems like its coming from the direction of the cooking class." These words are often spoken as one walks through the halls on that aromatic day that the foods classes are preparing their special gourmets. Through actual preparation of such goodies as cookies, tangy beverages and scrumptious looking cakes, the girls, preparing to become good homemakers, have an actual "taste" of what's in store for them. As the homemakers munch their tantalizing treats, admiring glances are cast in the direction of the passing young lady. She has just finished a proud sample of her artwork. The girls are instructed as to the preparation of a dress, blouse or skirt. Mrs. Sparks, who is the general instructor in this field, strives to produce young girls who can produce a finished product, which would display no signs of a sewing machine or thread! These girls also learn the care of the equipment they use.

"How does it look?" questions Jacki Wizecki of a helpful onlooker.

Handwork as well as power driven work is required to produce a professional looking dress.

Exact cutting for even slices assures perfect tempting cookies, or so Kathy Pawlicke is hoping for.

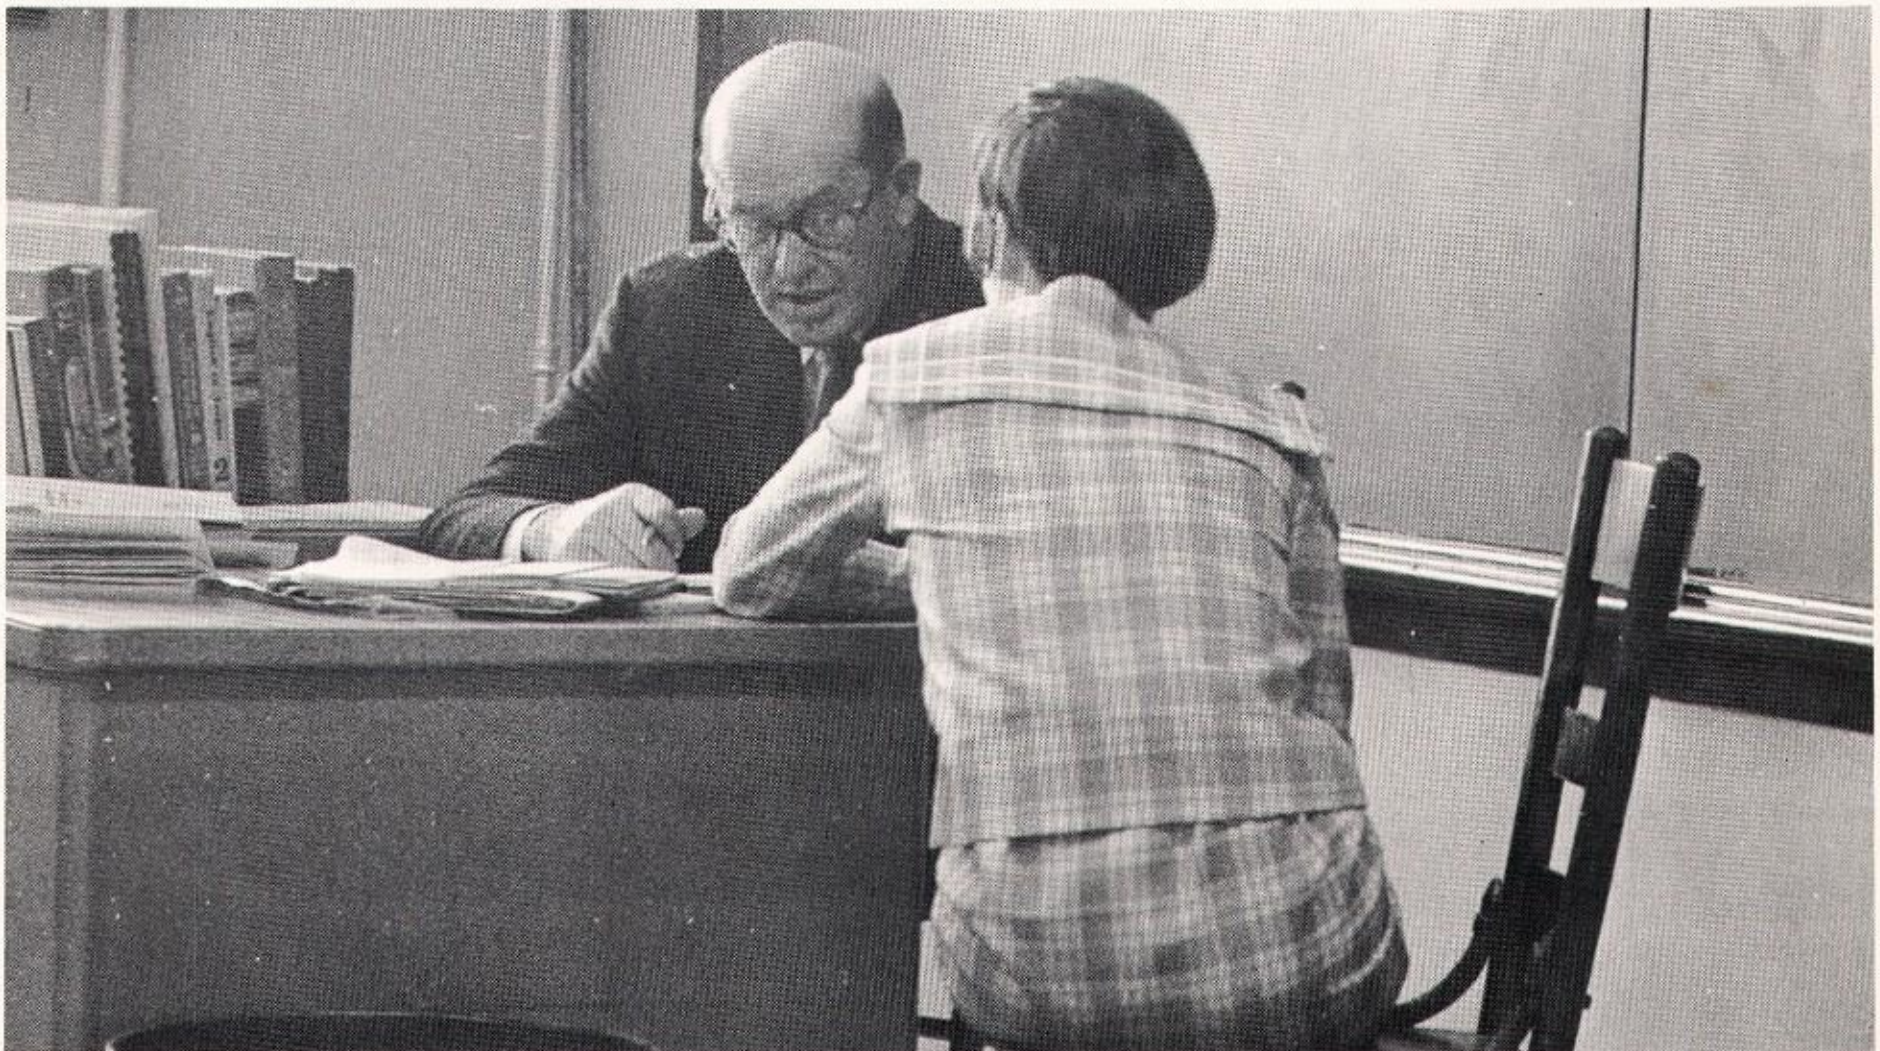

Changes in styles of writing are explained to students of American Literature.

Sophomore, Ellen Taft, concentrates on composing an interesting, informative theme for her English teacher, Miss Taylor.

students search for courses

It is usually a good idea to have read the book completely through just in case someone might ask you about it, such as your English teacher, Mr. Peterson.

Doug Anderson and Cindy Jankowski look through local newspaper to get ideas for the one they compose soon.

to improve communication

Red face, jittery nerves, sheer confusion . . . These could be words used to describe a student's first speech. The field of public speaking helps students perfect their art of communication by giving them a chance to speak in front of a critical audience. Types of speeches include, commercials, speeches to entertain, persuade and inform.

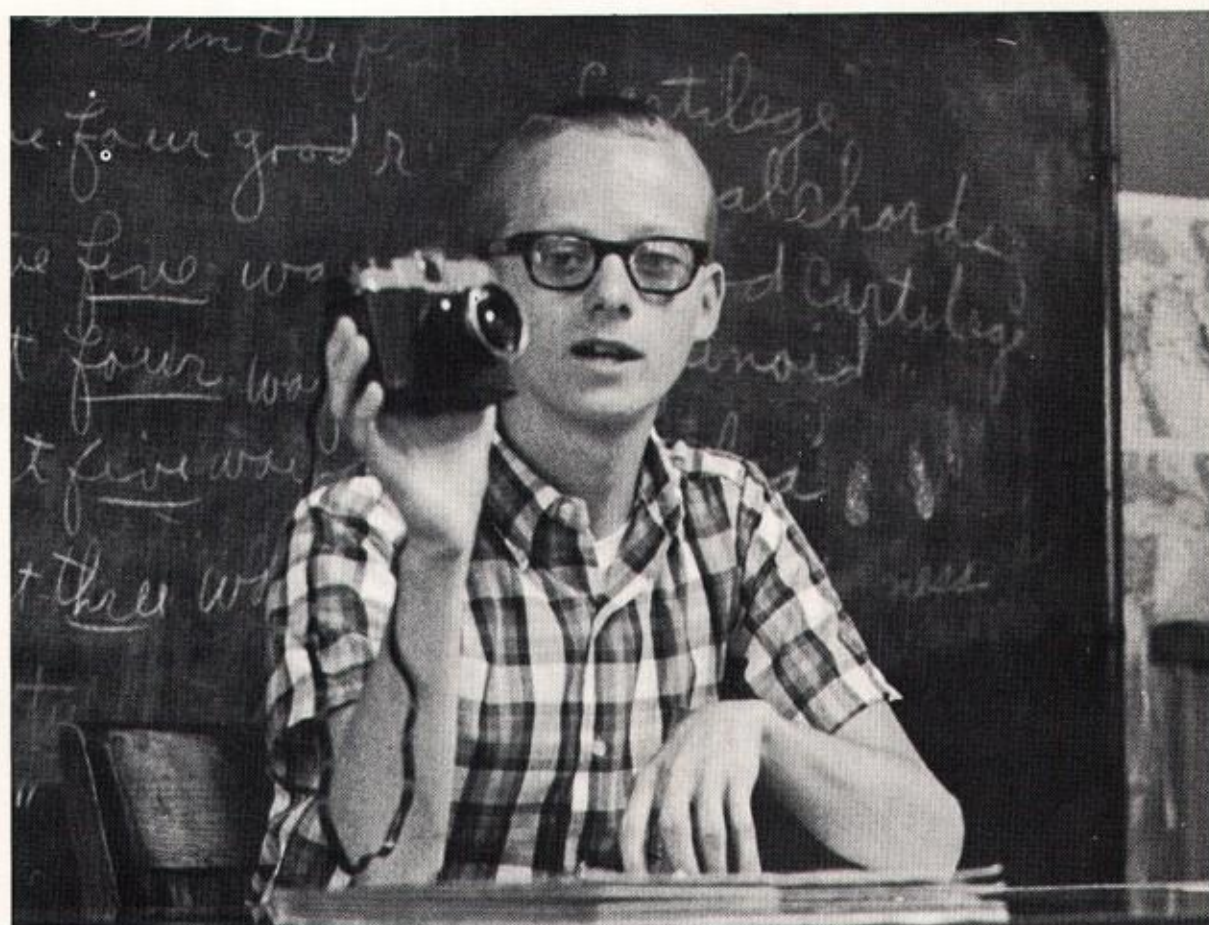

Feature articles, cut lines, editorials . . . Sound familiar? To students taking journalism, these and others should have a familiar ring. To aid the Comet workers, journalists are taught how to perfect a good newspaper or how to compose an interesting and well edited theme.

Verbs, authors, novels . . . The story of our English Department. Students reading short stories or plays are given an insight in to the field of American or English Literature. By reading a novel each year, students have a chance to voice their point of view on the same book. Communication through words—ENGLISH!

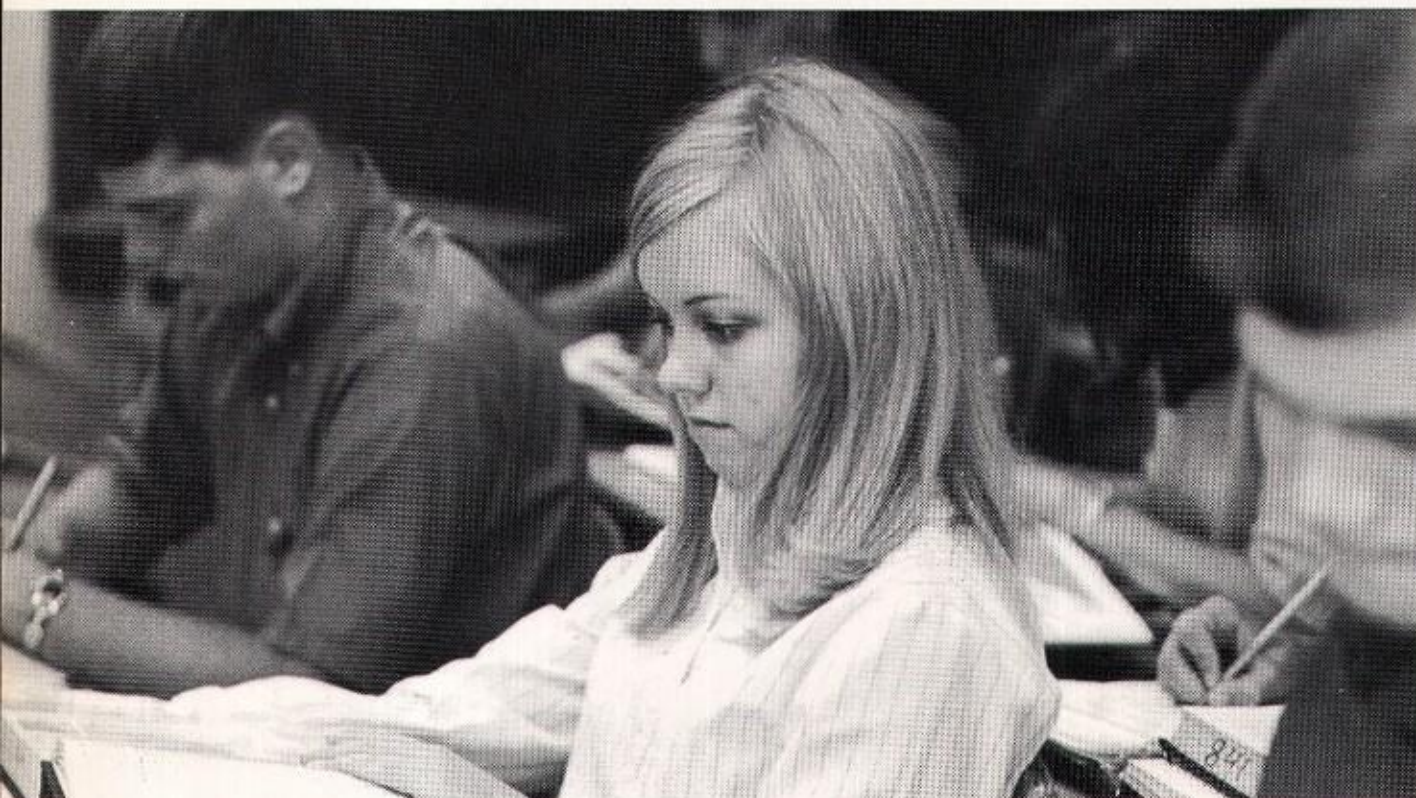

Vicki Pagel and "friend" try to sell all the ladies in the audience this amazing value in her advertising speech.

"Smile, you're on Candid Camera," says Bill Criswell.

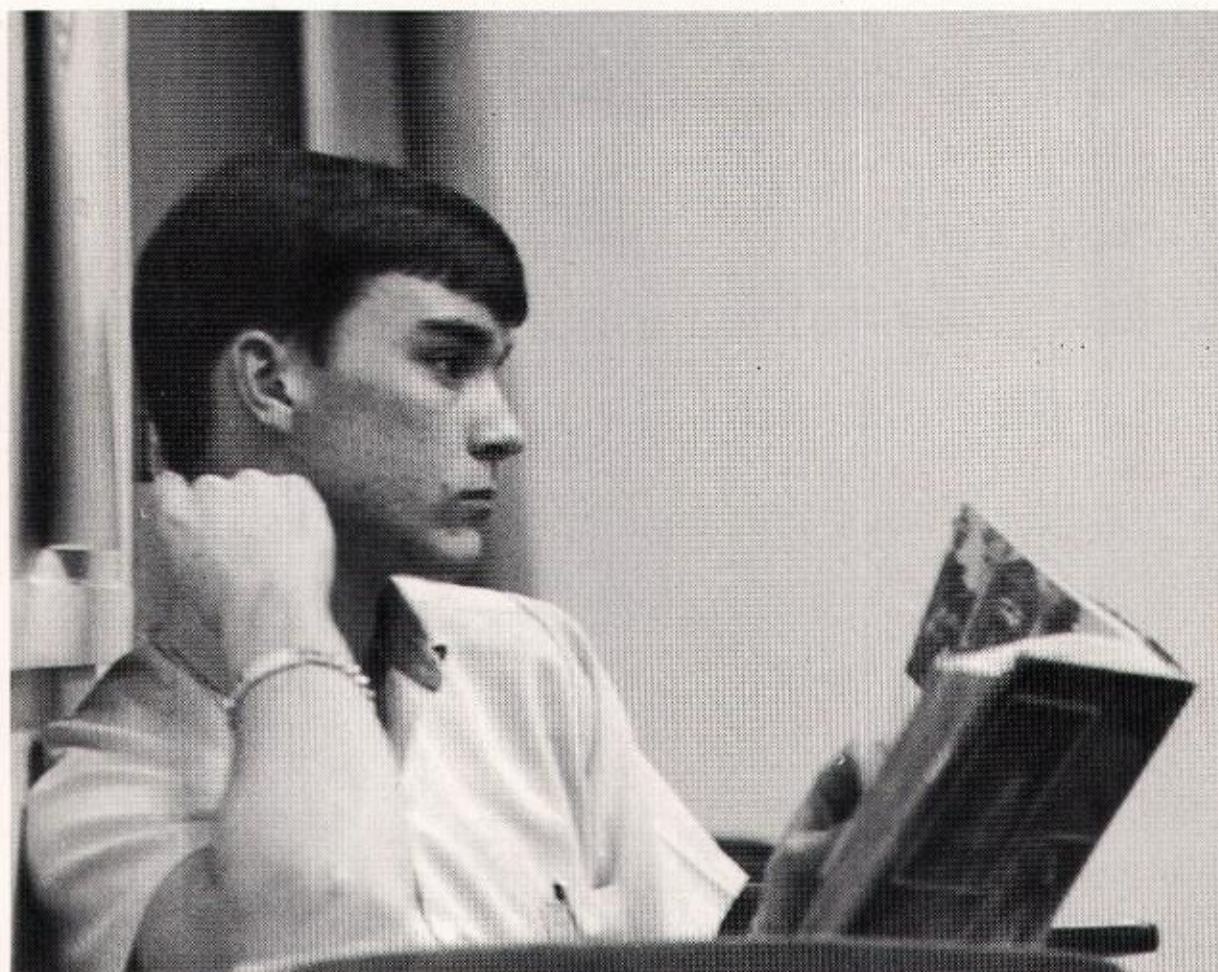

social studies classes analyze the world crises

Reading can open a new scope into history, I guess, thinks Melinda Miller.

That girl on the other side of the room is sure more interesting than World History.

Through debates, discussions, and arguments students learn the language of social studies. In ninth grade a student starts with the geography of the world. World history with all its gala eras' is studied while one is a sophomore. Our United States history is open for criticism and glorification in the eleventh grade. When you become a senior, depending on your school curriculum, a choice is made. College prep students will take government with the choice of either economics or sociology. The rest of the students take government and American problems. The Social Studies Department also offers extra curricular activities for their students. Social Studies Seminars are given for the students attendance. The teachers of the department present a debate with a chance for the students to participate. After this study the students are versed on world affairs.

An off guard candid catches Mr. Troyer lecturing.

A line of French horns adds harmony to a new piece in Band.

students study technique, rhythm, rhyme

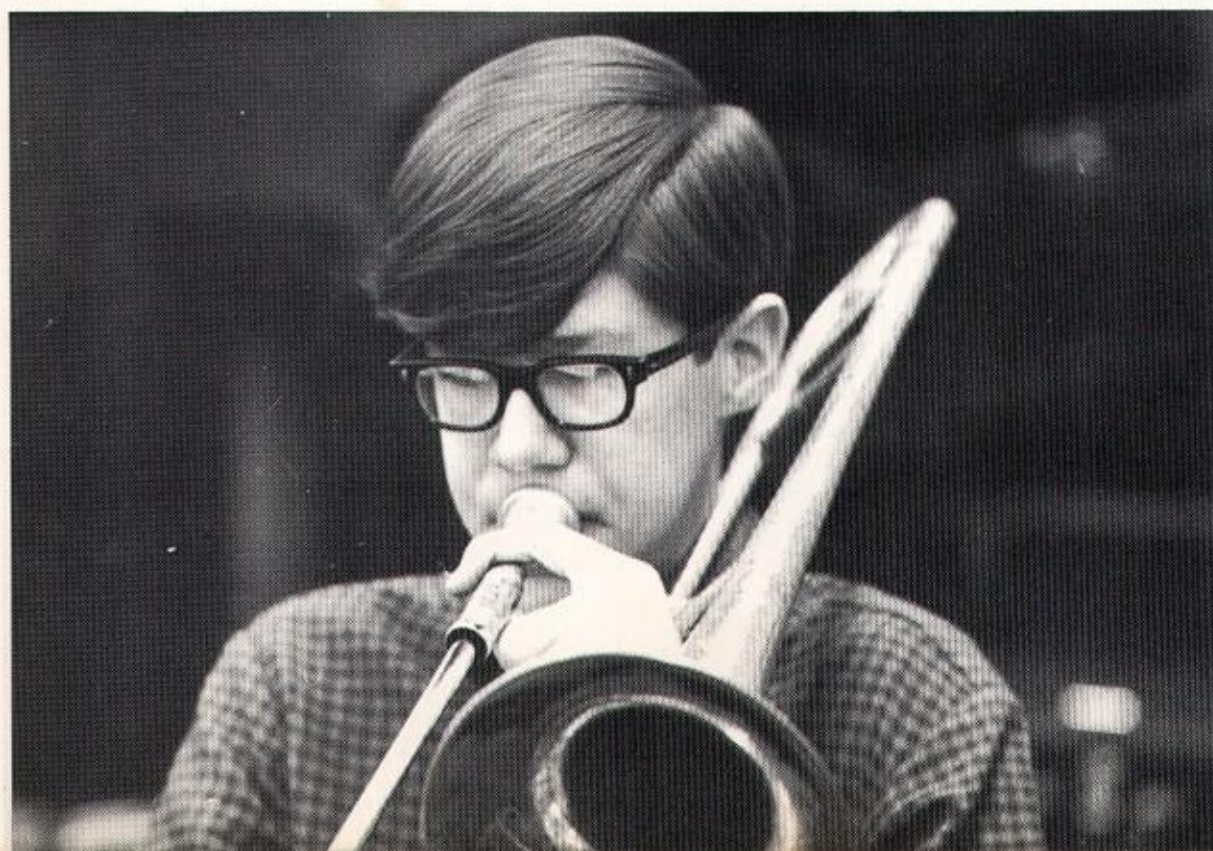

To many people, music has become another universal language. It holds truth, mystery, and a mood for all those who are involved in it. Music at our school appears in two forms: instrumental and vocal. The music that is played or sung is of a modern flair. It has generally been composed in the last decade so that it will please all people. In ninth grade those who are interested in voice are put into choruses while those interested in instruments begin lessons. At high school the music becomes a daily class.

Band and voice classes are credited subjects. For more advanced students there is an opportunity for them to become involved in contests and concerts. Awards are given to those who are able to play well. Concerts are given throughout the year for the school and public entertainment. The instructors strive to teach their pupils style, techniques, and rhythm, besides good music appreciation. Through these formative years the basis for music majors are founded.

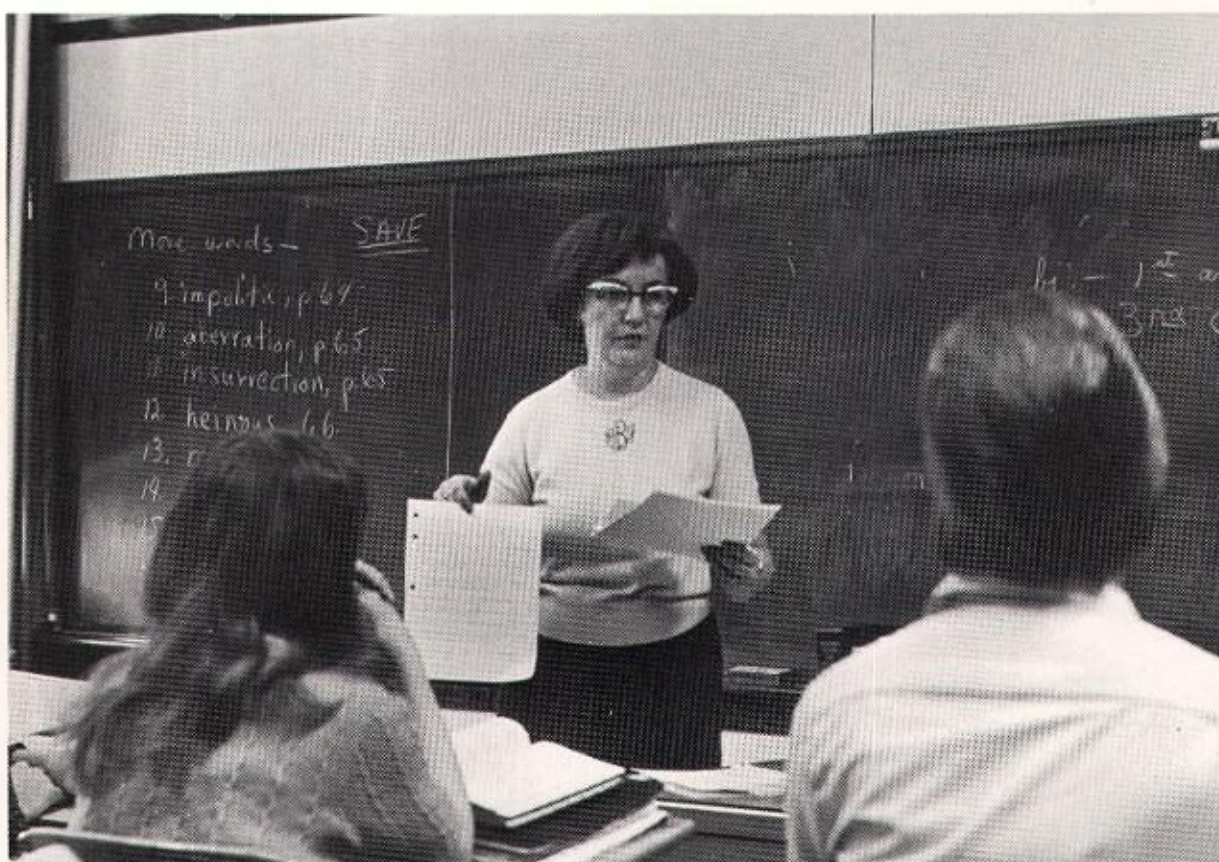

All chorus classes begin with a review of the scales.

Gary Bartholomew and his trombone concentrate on hitting the right notes.

language

All right, who forgot their name this time, asks Mrs. Bonfield?

A taste of foreign atmosphere is shown in our language classes. Languages from all over the world are offered: French, Latin, Spanish, and German. The study of these dialects begin in the sophomore year. To receive a minor in foreign language, you must take one of the languages for two years. You receive a major when the language is studied for three or four years. Besides the fundamentals learned in class, the student who has our standing merit in a language can receive a scholarship in a summer session, which sends the student to a foreign land. This helps those students who wish to major in their languages in college. After these years of studying, the students are acclimated to foreign atmosphere and ready for further study.

A flair for service sparks our Business Department. The business machines classes are doing jobs for both school and civic activities. Their services are employed for fliers, invitations, administration work, and even maybe our report cards. Their training starts in the sophomore year with general business and typing. The junior year follows suit with bookkeeping, electric typewriters and shorthand. To conclude their studies, accounting and office machines are taken during the senior year. After this training the graduates find many jobs waiting. Besides machine work, there is filing, accounting, receptionists, and secretarial work. These students' courses resemble that of the machine training except for the addition of business English.

vocational arts prepare a future

Joe Martorano works with an instrument in electronics.

Concentration is required to obtain skill at a drill.

Work in projects help the vocational student prepare for the future in technical work. It provides the student with needed training and knowledge of equipment, which he will be in contact with throughout a career. Since the vocational department is the largest in the school, it offers the greatest variety in courses from which to specialize. This vocational training begins in the ninth grade and continues on through the twelfth grade. Each year an elective is given to the student to choose among the following subjects: mechanical drawing, electronics, machine shop, auto shop, sheet metal, welding, wood shop, and distributive education. From these classes the student will obtain a fairly rounded education. After high school, however, it is advisable for the student to further his education in a trade school. Besides vocational subjects, these students also learn subjects of domestic importance.

Do you suppose that this combination will work?

Teachers of health cover a variety of subjects from the systems of the body, to the vitamins essential to maintain it.

After a semester of health, the student studies safety, in preparation for drivers training. Through such things as dashboard drawings, accident reports and notebooks, teachers try to illustrate actual traffic hazards. The final step seems to be the behind the wheel driving in drivers training. Here the teaching in safety is put to the test. All of these subjects strive to keep our population alive just a little bit longer.

Gloating glances are given to those who must struggle through the agony of sit-ups.

"You're not wet enough," . . . "Stomach in," . . . "Knees straight"—These sounds can be heard at any hour of the day coming from the vicinity of the gym classes. Through such varied activities as volleyball, girls field hockey, tumbling and indoor calisthenics the girls strive to retain their girl watchers figures! The stronger sex run through such vigorous agitations as hippy-tippy toe, which is a soccer type baseball, indoor soccer, cage ball and of course the regular exercises and relay races done to build their masculine physique. When students enter Senior High they have already achieved one half credit in P.E. It is concluded usually in their sophomore year by gaining another one-half credit, making one full credit needed by the pupils to graduate. Keeping the body in good physical condition is the goal set and achieved by our P.E. Department.

Among other jobs (and tires) Dennis Nash finds time to answer the telephone.

Courses of study increase in kind and number to keep up with the rapid advances demanded in today's world. Each student should have the kind of education that will best prepare him for the future. Twenty-five seniors participated in the credit course of Distributive Education taught by Mr. Dry. Mornings were spent in regular classes and afternoons were spent on the job in the various phases of marketing and salesmanship. Mr. Maxey's classes in Diversified Cooperative Education had an enrollment of forty-three. In the classroom each student studied his chosen field of work, participated in discussion and problem-solving. Jobs of skilled and semi-skilled types were available for both boys and girls.

A new addition to the Distributive Education Department is the poster printer.

Papier mache, collage, block printing, still life painting, whatever the assignment, it requires a personal touch.

Students hand in three sketches every Monday. As the year progresses so does the student in terms of awareness of proportions, contrast, and balance.

Art can be taken for three years, starting in the sophomore year. It makes a worthwhile and enjoyable elective in junior and senior years. Teachers are Mrs. Behrndt, head of the department, Mrs. Valentine, and Mr. Ferguson.

At the annual regional scholastic art show in the spring teachers submit outstanding student portfolios. Nominees are chosen for scholarship awards.

As kids grow older they change games . . . Teenagers prefer games with considerations of individual taste, greater mental and physical skills (jobs). Objectives of the games create learning situations that are fun; relieve boredom by constructive use of time. Rewards of the games are many and varied. foreign language program benefits students

In Krefeld, Germany, a modern building doesn't make going to school so bad. After school miniature golf seemed to be the craze and of course dancing with an "English" beat.

How could the juniors possibly get everything ready for the Junior-Senior Prom in the limited amount of time? First, their ingenuity was put to a test; they had to decide on a theme. Scenery and servers were next on the list. Last, but not least, their patience was put to test throughout the trying week. The big, empty gymnasium, which everyone had thought was impossible to decorate, began to take shape.

In a matter of minutes, the previously tranquil room was filled with sounds of merriment.

From the murals on the walls to the buildings of the ancient city, the theme of "The Arabian Nights" was ever present.

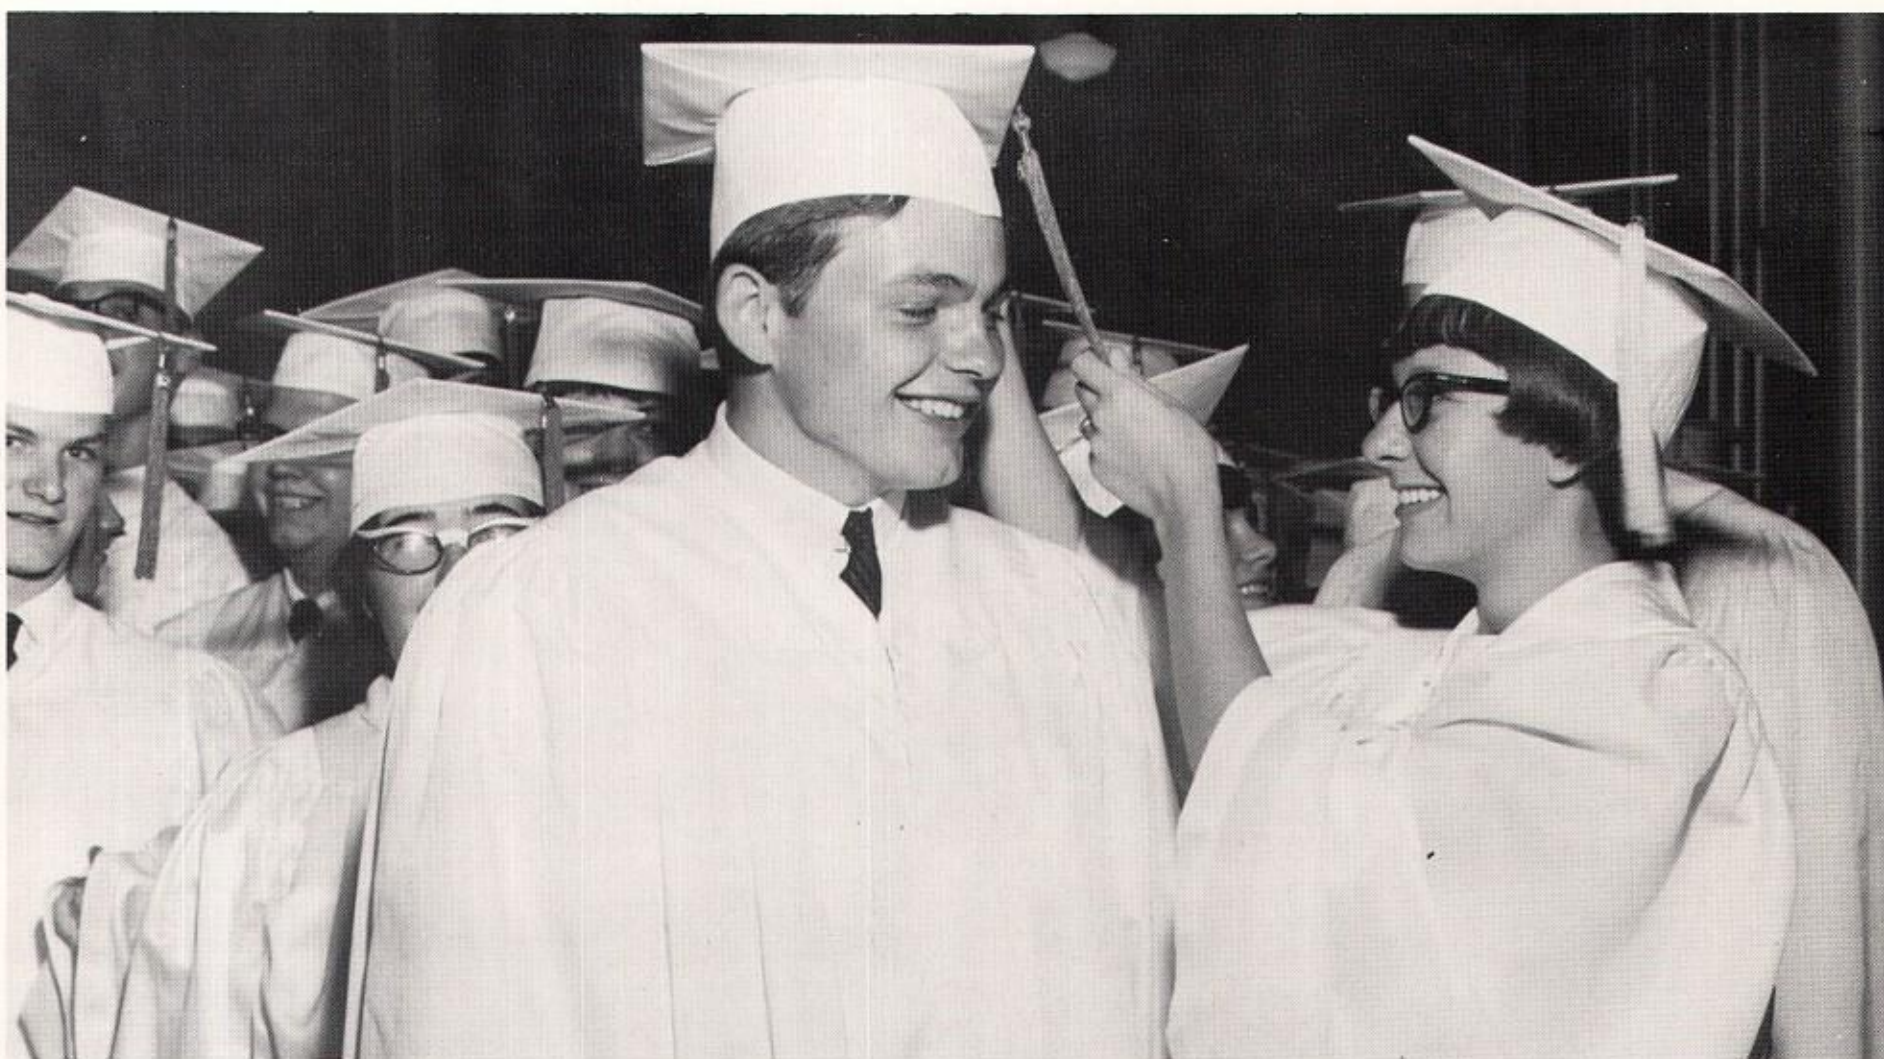

Captured by the mood of the night, Marsha Kubaszczyk and Dan Hosna take a moment to reminisce.

"Please Connie, be careful with that pin!" exclaims Doug Schultz.

Pam Arnold, Doug Anderson, Cindy Collins, John Florent, Jean Florent and Tim Hammond become amazed at the fountain.

smiles, memories

Mixed emotions filled the hearts of the Seniors during their final days at Elston Senior High. They were joyous because graduation day was near, yet saddened by the fact that only memories could be preserved. "Pomp and Circumstance" could be heard in the background as the graduates filed into the auditorium. C. William Ritterhoff, Vice-President of Bethlehem Steel Corporation, was the principal speaker.

"Margie Abram, Mike Adams, Cathy Akins . . ."

As the students walked across the stage they were handed a small piece of paper. It was not as insignificant as it appeared. That document was the key to open the door to the outside world. The leaders of tomorrow was an issue no longer, for they had become those leaders, today.

Larry Eidy proudly steps up to receive his diploma.

By adding greater fulfillment to the academic role in school life these organizations serve to enliven and enlarge the personality of the student.

By recognizing the individual creativity and personality these groups strive for the emergence of potential traits of leadership.

By creating an atmosphere for growth toward maturity these organizations give the student a right to participate and with that right comes the responsibility to contribute.

students represented in government

Jim Kniola, Eddie Wilson, and Phil Keen joyously receive the Victory Bell returned by Jim Schroeder, Student Council president from LaPorte.

Representing the student body is the Student Council. Members are elected by the students of each class and meetings are held when important issues need to be discussed. This year the Student Council has discontinued the Snake Dance and has replaced it with "Beat LaPorte" week. Other issues discussed were the Elston Squeeze, class rings, school spirit, and the sale of season basketball tickets.

students serve school and community

After close consideration in the fields of scholarship, leadership, service, and character, members of the National Honor Society are selected. Their service to the school and community is shown through sponsoring the annual clothing drive, "Hams and Lambs", the Sophomore Assembly of orientation, and the Channel 11 fund raising drive.

Students and faculty members helped fill 101 bags with clothing which were given to needy families.

y clubs uphold creed

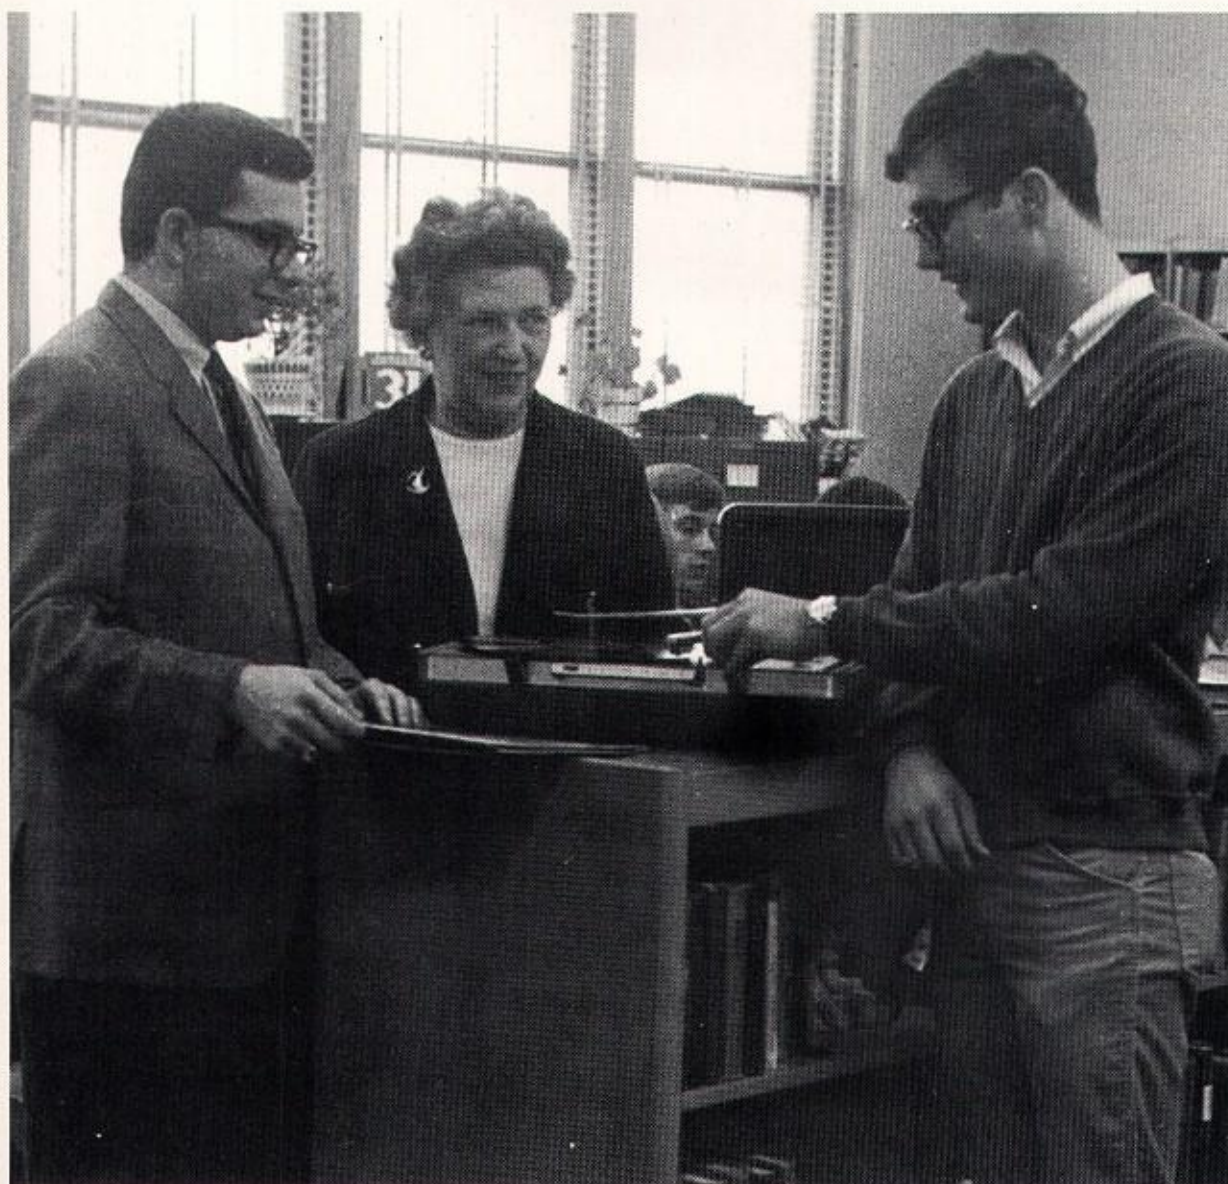

The creed of the National Tri-Hi-Y and Hi-Y Fellowship is to strive to create, maintain, and extend high standards of Christian character. Members of these clubs are willing to support and uphold this creed. Club meetings are held twice a month. Their activities include "Youth in Government", sponsoring dances at the Y.M.C.A. to raise money for projects such as providing worthy families with Thanksgiving baskets, and donating Christmas gifts to rest homes in Michigan City. This year the '68 Hi-Y presented the library with a new record player.

red devils' record much improved

Coach Vic Overman frequently offers his excellent advice on a play to the players.

On September first, the Michigan City football season got into full swing. After a summer of hard work and training, the Red Devils came out onto the field to send Gary Tolleston to defeat by a score of thirteen to nothing. The next week the Devils traveled to South Bend Washington, where they were beaten thirty-three to six. The following week, this time at South Bend Adams, they fared similarly. Then came homecoming, and the first real pep session. The enthusiasm created by this, and a parade, carried the team to an unmerciful victory over the St. Joe Bears, twenty-five to six! With this victory, already having more wins than the entire previous season, the spirited Red Devils romped on to upset the Goshen Redskins, nineteen to seven. The next week it rained for three days before the game and on Friday night, the field was so wet many people had doubts about the game being played. But the teams appeared on the field as scheduled, and the South Bend Central Bears fell to defeat at the hands of the mighty Red Devils, thirteen to three. Once again, the team traveled away from home to Mishawaka, but were repelled, twenty-seven to seven. The rains came again and the LaPorte Slicers football field was very wet. This caused the score to be held to seven to nothing against the Red Devils, forcing us to give up the traditional victory bell to the Slicers. The last two games of the season were lost at home, to Elkhart and South Bend Riley at scores of twenty-one to nothing, each; the only games of the year to be lost at home. The total season record finished at four wins and six losses. Although not a winning season, it was much improved over past years. Also many individuals gained excellent recognition. Three members of the team, Seniors, Felbert Merriweather on tackle and guard Joe Martorano, as well as Junior quarterback Dan Overman, all received honorable mentions from the Associated Press All-State football team.

best year yet for netmen

Early in the summer, Mr. Parry met with a group of promising netmen in order to form the next year's tennis team. All through the summer they practiced until finally they were ready to down River Forest in the season opener, seven to nothing. Then they proceeded to eliminate two more opponents, before running into LaPorte, who set them back, six to one. After another loss to Elkhart they regained their spirit and went on to six straight victories in a row before stumbling over Goshen. Undaunted by their fall, they pepped up and swung on to finish their best season ever, with eleven wins and three losses. The only senior on this year's team, as well as captain and number one player was Russ Cormier. The other members of the team in order were Terry Ginthner, Al Severs, John LaFountain, Lee Lonzo, and Dan Bard. Ginthner and Cormier teamed up in the doubles along with Severs and Lonzo.

cross country team takes fourth in regionals

Mr. Fischer could often be heard urging the team on to its successful 15—5 season in '68. Four upper classmen assisted by five juniors and two sophs could usually be seen leading the pack as they raced over the hilly terrain of the Municipal Golf Course. Completing one of their best seasons ever, they conquered twenty-one other teams in sectional action, and missed a trip to State by only fourteen points, taking fourth place in the Regional Tournament. In this last action of the season, Gary Schroeder and Mike Schipanek finished fourteenth and sixteenth out of a field of eighty. Schepanek, co-captain with Jim Kniola, was voted most valuable runner for the season, and also broke the point record, previously held by Kniola, set in 1966.

red devil swimmers place at state

The Red Devil Tankmen went up against innumerable odds this year to finish up with five boys placing at the State meet. Faced with a young team, many inconveniences related to the pool, and only three returning senior lettermen, the team lost all but two of their meets, against Chesterton and Portage. They placed fifth at the sectional and seventh in the conference, and finally sent five men to State. Dan Guse placed third in the 100 yard breast stroke, and the Medley Relay team composed of Bradley, Krause, Guse, and DeWitt, placed tenth, tying the team for fourteenth over all. This obviously points out individual excellence within the team. With most of their lettermen returning, and possibilities of new facilities in the future, hopes for the coming years look bright.

This year's Red Devil wrestling team had their share of problems, and as fate would have it, lost all of their meets, except the last one against New Carlisle. Several fine individual wrestlers were obvious in the scoring reports of our meets. Felbert Meriweather, Lynn Steinhiser, Bob Callaway, and Oscar Meriweather were all honored as outstanding members of the team, and a statuette of each was placed among the trophies of Elston. Although this year's record was not good, next year's team has an optimistic look, and many experienced men will be returning.

devils take third straight regional crown

The day after the last football game in the fall, an announcement came over the PA system to the homerooms: "The Red Devils will report to the locker room at 3:30 tonight for basketball practice in the gym." From this moment on, the entire school knew that it was basketball season in Indiana, and the Red Devils were the best. They started out to prove this a few weeks later when they embarrassed the Blue Devils of Gary Froebel with a score of 74-67. This was followed up by an entire season of notorious victories, blemished only by two losses to S.B. Adams, and East Chicago Washington. Among the ranks of the fallen were teams such as Elkhart, Goshen, Indpls. Wood, Muncie Central, and of course, LaPorte. This 20-2 season record earned the Red Devils their rightfully deserved conference championship, which we shared with Elkhart, also having a record of 20-2. With regular season games out of the way, they now set their sights on the tournament road. Our first obstacles in the first game of the sectionals were the Rolling Prairie Bulldogs. After downing them, 92-40, we next tore into the LaPorte Slicers, victory bell ringing all the way. A 90-52 loss quieted them, and set the stage for the sectional championship game, in which we trounced the South Central Satellites, 96-49. South Bend St. Joe proved to be a worthy opponent with whom we had to deal at Elkhart, before taking the regional crown and downing the Akron Fliers, 94-77. "Hey, Hey, All the Way!" was the cry as we dribbled past Kokomo in the afternoon game at the Semi-State. In the evening we returned to be surprised by Marion's Giants. In spite of a fierce battle on the part of the Devils, we finally stepped down stubbornly to Marion, with but one reply, "We Shall Return!" This year's Red Devil Basketball team did a magnificent job, being rated somewhere in the top ten all year and finding the regular season rated fifth in the state. Coach Doug Adams did a great job in shaping such a team out of a group of boys including only two seniors, Paul O'Gorek and Phil Keen. Dan Taylor, who was out most of the season with a football injury, and Sam Griffin, also out most of the season, were both seniors also. Kevin Ward, Greg Alexander, Eddie (Duke) Wilson, Grant Payton, Bob Hood, and all the rest of the juniors, will be returning again next year for a return match. Also returning are sophomores Ike Whitfield and Jim George, to make next year our best year yet.

pinkimps have 20—2 record

Coach Whitlow led the Pink Imps to an impressive winning spree this year, winning nineteen games out of 20. Two boys, originally on the Pink Imps, Isiah Whitfield and Jim George were moved up to the Red Devils while still sophomores. The rest of these boys will be returning to the Red Devil varsity team. This great B-team when coupled with next year's large returning squad, will be a tremendous help in making that season even better yet for the Red Devils.

young team fares well; finishes 12—14 season

One of the youngest baseball teams in our high schools' history, the 1967 Red Devils overcame numerous problems and succeeded in finishing a twelve-fourteen season. With only three seniors, Coach Perry was able to shape a team that became a finalist in the sectional tourney, finally bowing to the Laporte Slicers, who went on to win the State Baseball Championship. During the season, key injuries were sustained by Al Gabriel, putting him out for the season, and Gary Goetz. Senior, Tom Knoll was first baseman, captain, and voted most valuable player by his team-mates. Dean Marek, the sophomore pitcher who threw two no-hitters, along with batting champs Ron Tiedeman, with a .300 average, Gary Goetz, and Dan Richmann all added much strength to the team.

Both power and speed are captured here, as sophomore pitcher, Dean Marek winds up to fire another across the plate.

The B-team did well this year, finishing a 12-2-1 season. Defeats were sustained at the hands of Mishawaka, and South Bend Adams. Batting champs for the year were Roland Butler, and Ray Kominiarek. individual excellence shown by track team Exerting a final burst of speed, Dennis Kelley and Ed Salat lead these St. Joe runners in the 440.

The 1967 Red Devil Track Team, with only five senior lettermen and a large number of underclassmen, gained valuable experience this year with the competition being against many of the toughest teams in the state. Excellent individual efforts were reached in some areas by younger boys who are expected to quickly fill up the vacancies left by graduating seniors in 1968. Outstanding in their events were juniors, Ed Salat, Paul O'Gorek, and Mike Schepanek. Sophomores, Gordon Pytynia and T. C. Falls were also great assets to the team. Coach McAnnally has high hopes for next year's team because of the large number of returning seniors, and he predicts a much improved season in '68.

Flying through the air with the greatest of ease, Doug Wright races past the low hurdles.

Showing good form, Dave Graham clears the bar as he makes his entry in the pole vault.

An unknown golfer tees off into the sunset on his final hole.

Rob Miller gracefully prepares to putt out.

golf team has good year

The 1967 golf team, under the leadership of Coach Miller, piled up an impressive 12-4 season to take second place in conference standings. During the regular season they were stopped only by Mishawaka and South Bend Washington, and LaPorte twice. Then in sectional action, they placed fourth from a field of twenty-four. Often among the top five were Mike Demos, Greg Devetski, Rob Miller, and Terry Peckat.

lettermen exemplify school spirit

Each Friday the school is filled with visible enthusiasm, in the form of red and white letter-sweaters throughout the halls. At many pep sessions and school activities the lettermen are to be found in a large enthusiastic group. Often decorating the halls of Elston with pep banners, the lettermen play an important role in spirit of the various Red Devil teams. Although this year they were not officially organized into a group, the lettermen were still often recognized collectively. Lettermen earn their sweaters for participation in various sports, as well as pins and chevrons, and stars are awarded to team captains. After accumulation of fifteen points in a specific system, outstanding athletes are eligible for a letter-jacket. As one can see, it is a great honor indeed to be the proud owner of a Red Devil letter sweater or jacket.

Lettermen are often responsible for pep banners like this one.

Phil Keen helps to create enthusiasm among the student body at this pep session.

administration strengthens learning

Mr. Ara K. Smith, Superintendent of Schools.

Unlike the faculty the school administration works all year long. The enrollment of Elston is so large that it takes the summer vacation to prepare for the coming school year. Each year the increasing enrollment causes more problems for the administration. Hopefully with the completion of the new vocational building, crowded conditions can be eliminated. Slowly but surely steps are being taken for the building of a new Senior High School. This will benefit the students immensely.

Mr. Yentes, Associate Superintendent.

Dr. Robert Raisor, Assistant Superintendent in charge of Secondary Education.

Miss Alma Koza, Assistant Superintendent in charge of Elementary Education.

SCHOOL BOARD MEMBERS SEATED: are Mrs. Frances Kubik, Mr. E. Preston Calvert, Dr. P. J. Pilecki.

The Seniors of 1968 will long remember the three wonderful, yet trying years they've gone through at Elston. As sophomores they experienced a great thrill as the fighting Red Devils won their first State Championship Basketball Tournament. In their junior year they faced many busy days with Jr. Concessions, the Prom, and the Jr. Play. As seniors, they were faced with various tests to take and many responsibilities to look after. All the seniors were anxiously awaiting graduation day when they would receive that hard-earned diploma, yet many tears were shed. Everyone went their separate ways. Perhaps someday they will be brought together again, but, if not, they will still treasure the very best of memories high school had offered them.

Claudia Howat receives the Betty Crocker Award.

Congratulations '68

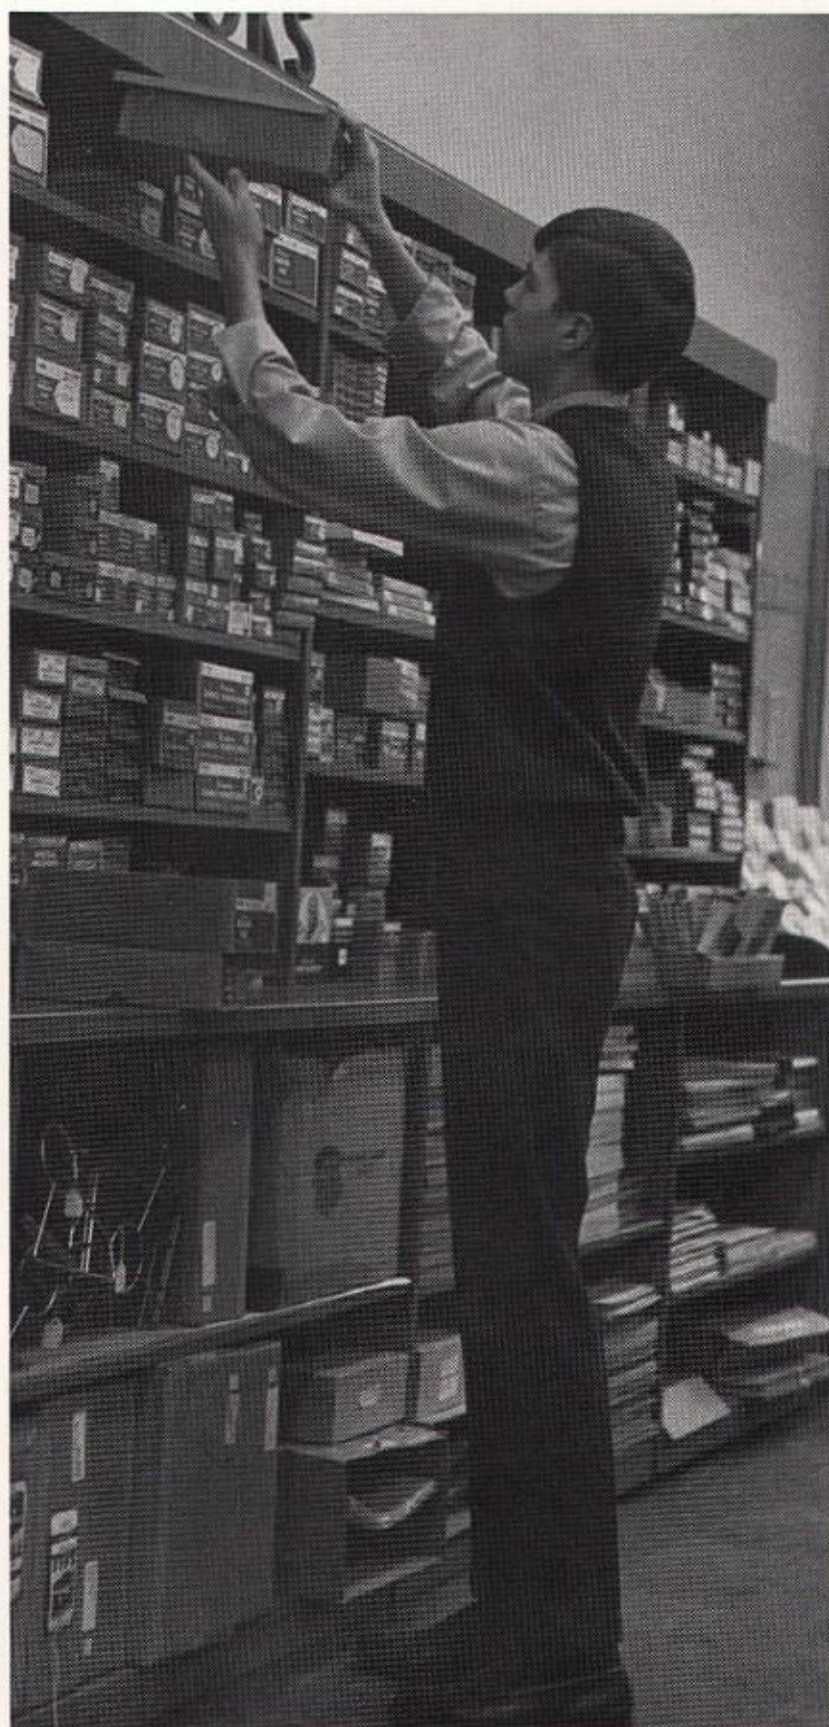

... from the place that thinks young ...

That's right—First Federal has thought “young” for a long time. In fact, we've encouraged thousands of young people to save regularly in our Thrift Club (now over 15,000 members).

We're also happy to lend a helping hand with college loans when needed.

Remember to think of us when you need a friend in the years to come ... we'll be here ... “thinking young”.

You're ready to make any scene when you wear JAYMAR slacks

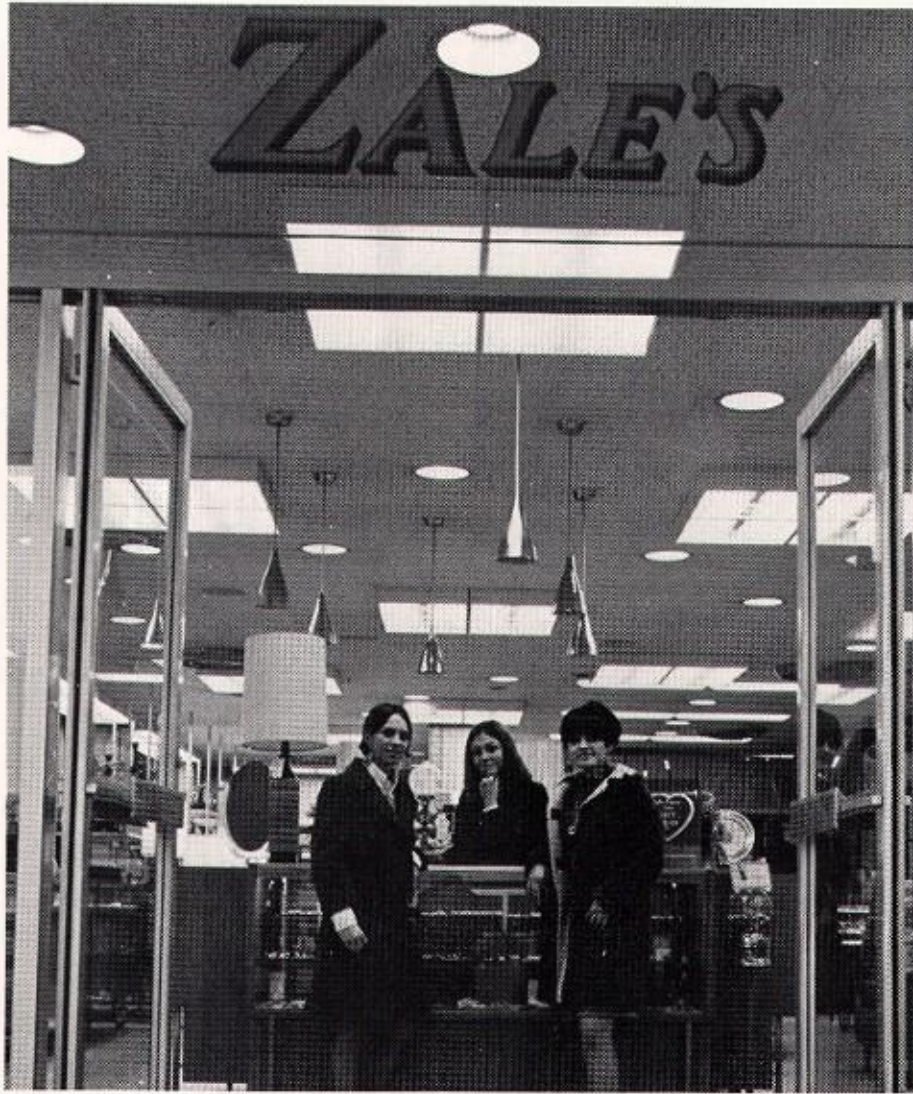

Both Jeff and Mike know that if Jan votes thumbs down to an evening at home that they need only top off their JAYMAR slacks with a coat and tie and they are ready for that concert by the Supremes.

Mike is wearing a YMM traditional belt loop model in a sharp looking plaid. Jeff's slack is the Jaymar SANSABELT slack featuring the unique inner waistband made in France that moves with you, never binds.

JAYMAR slacks are designed in a wide selection of fabrics, colors, and styles to fit the young man's mood.

How

*I still say you are worthless! Really,
 I don't know what I would have done without you. Pat.*

*I hope I have a worthless girl like you in every class - just think what fun
 I could have.*

Best of luck in what ever you choose to do.

*Love,
 Mrs. "Jasni" Foster*

thinking I'm queer cause I'm not. I wouldn't be going steady! Sorry I took so much space but I had a lot to say and is now said. So amen. I hope the words weren't empty.

Louise...
We are both in the same boat... x-girlfriends of Tim. I do not know if you got over it but I did not. Remember our little thumper game. I will not come in M. hady shop at 8:45 any more.
I promise. Have fun at collage. See you this summer. Have fun
we always remain friends. Hope
Jan Kwikowski

Lou.
Remember our mutual friend (Jo)
that is if you call it a friend.
Remember all the fun as a senior (?) — I'm going to try to forget when I'm a senior — if ever!
Hope your knee
gets better!
Love
EK

Louise
So you think I'm mean and rotten!
I can't help myself — but I'm not always bad. Don't forget Eng.

Louise,
Joan bad in an underclassman. You're here really a riot. Have comes the usual. Have be fun this summer and be good. Nancy John

Low,
Is a new nice and cute girl. I've had fun being a gym assistant with you.
